

About LCRT

South Carolina's first mass transit project is coming to the Lowcountry.

Lowcountry Rapid Transit (LCRT) is a 21.3-mile, modern bus rapid transit system that will connect communities in our region like never before. Operating mostly in dedicated lanes, LCRT will provide safe, reliable and low-cost connections between Ladson, North Charleston and Downtown Charleston. Whether you're traveling on foot, on bike, or on the bus, LCRT welcomes you.

By investing in permanent infrastructure that supports reliable, frequent and accessible rapid transit, we will connect our neighbors with the resources that allow our communities to thrive – employment hubs, education, affordable housing, healthcare, grocery stores, community centers and entertainment. This investment will also bring new opportunities to the neighborhoods along the rapid transit system by revitalizing communities that are active today and creating a vision for those who want to live and work here tomorrow.

Lowcountry Rapid Transit is a program of Berkeley-Charleston-Dorchester Council of Governments.
